TORONTO MEETS SUCCESS IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

McGill Fails to Overcome Lead in Strenuous Last-Minute Rally—Team Plays in Form Only in Dying Moments of Game—"Miss America" Introduced After Close of Game.

Toronto won the basketball fixture on Saturday. Despite a terrific last minute onslaught the steady moving outfit from the Queen City held their heads well above water and came out three baskets ahead in the first game of the series in which McGill has played. This gives Toronto a second win, inasmuch as Queens met defeat at the hands of this team last week, but the McGill team is still in the running, and have every opportunity of repeating last year's feat, when after losing a first game in Toronto they were able to carry off the title, as Queens staged a comeback and defeated the Blue and White squad.

The High School gymnasium was crowded long before the game started. The rooters were there led by "Nuts" Nutting. The gallery held a capacity crowd and every bit of standing room was filled. Miss America was at the game, and was introduced at the conclusion of the play. The Mandolin Club was out led by Logan, and they gave several pleasing selections. In fact, everything was set for a Red and White victory, but the clean, steady shooting Blue and White players were able to outplay and defeated the McGill team.

Manson got the first jump and Turpel was up the floor like a flash, but before he broke through the whistle blew. Manson sent the ball into the ring and gave McGill her first point. The second free try missed the mark and on the rebound the ball again went wild of the basket. Toronto worked the ball down the floor, but Crain intercepted a pass, and playing a clever bit of combination the ball was brought through the defence, Crain missing a hard shot from under the basket. Another penalty and Manson added two more points to the score. On the jump Toronto got the ball, and in an instant scored. The next play again saw the Blue score. The McGill forwards missed on many shots at the baskets. McGill attempted to use the new backboards, while Toronto shot directly into the ring. Manson got the ball way down the floor, and in a fast bit of combination play with Turpel in between the ball went to Amaron, who scored. Manson gave the leather to Crain on the jump, and the shot went into the ring but rolled over the edge

ARENA FILLED

U. of M. Hold 'Varsity After First Period

With a team which was capable of good combination work, as well as speed and accurate shooting, Toronto Varsity defeated the University of Montreal for the second time by the score of 7-5, and thus strengthened their hold on the leadership of the intercollegiate hockey race. The game was hard-fought, and served to prove the superiority of team play over individual rushes; for only a few times during the entire sixty minutes of play did U. of M. show any attempt at careful passing of the puck, and on two occasions this resulted in a goal for them. Both goalers gave wonderful exhibitions, although credit goes to Brosseau, who guarded the Montreal nets during the last two periods, for the largest number of difficult saves in the evening. To single out the best men on the Toronto team would be a difficult task, as each player filled his position very well, but Carson, who scored four goals, and Hudson deserve mention for their untiring efforts to penetrate the U. of M. defence, while Harris, besides doing brilliant defensive work, notched up three goals for his team. For U. of M., Captain Desbiens was the outstanding figure and by the end of the game his lone rusher was a familiar sight. Time and again, however, he would shoot from nearly centre ice, and such shots accurate as they may be, are practically useless in senior hockey.

The scene which presented itself at the Arena was quite as colorful as one as a college hockey game should produce; even before eight o'clock, the end sections were crowded with yelling youths, and by the middle of the first period the whole building was full. The silver and blue rooters, who sat at the eastern end of the rink, enlivened proceedings throughout the evening by their song and yells, and vied with the Toronto supporters in their efforts to give vent to their enthusiasm. The Université band was also present, and rendered selection between the periods. Miss Mount Royal and her guest, Miss America, arrived shortly before the commencement of the game. After meeting Captains Westman and Desbiens, and being presented with a large bouquet by Captain Desbiens, the play opened quietly and the puck received a tremendous ovation from the crowd. Then the teams and spectators stood at attention while the band played "O Canada."

FIRST PERIOD
The play opened quietly and the puck travelled from one end to the other with no result. Harris scored for Varsity in a clever play, which completely fooled Richardson. Varsity continued to outskate U. of M., who seemed to lack confidence, but Richardson was at this point doing great work in goals. The silver and blue used practically no combination; and after two minutes Harris tallied again. Just after the face-off Thompson was called upon to make a very difficult save; he was equal to it; and Varsity resumed their brilliant passing play, which shortly resulted in another goal, when Carson scored on a long hard shot. The U. of M. goaler broke his stick in disgust and while he was getting another.

We feel very much honored that we should have had the pleasure of entertaining your basketball team on New Year's day and it is the hope of all Pennsylvania men that the relations between the two Universities may grow stronger as time passes.

RT. HON SIR ROBT. HORNE IS TO SPEAK

Canadian Club to Hear Distinguished Speaker

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Address on Economic Situation in Great Britain

The Rt. Honourable Sir Robert Horne, ex-Chancellor of the British Exchequer, will address the student body under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club next Tuesday afternoon at 5 p.m. in the ball room of the Union. His address is expected to deal largely with economic conditions in Great Britain and Europe generally. Sir Robert was Chancellor of the Exchequer, and one of the most outstanding statesmen in the recent Lloyd George administration and did very good work in piloting the finances of the country through the troublesome after-war period. Sir Robert Horne is an MA., LL.B., Chancellor of the Exchequer, 1921, M.P. (Coalition Unionist), and Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy. He was educated at Watson's College, Edinburgh, and also at the University of Glasgow. Sir Robert became president of the University Conservative Club, and also of the Students' Representative Council. He is a brilliant scholar and during his college days won many scholarships. Sir Robert Horne took an active part in the last war. He was a lieutenant-colonel and in 1918 he became the Third Civil Lord of the Admiralty. The distinguished statesman is visiting America chiefly on business. He has already spoken in New York, Toronto, Ottawa and various Canadian Clubs. He is shortly returning to England.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION TO BE DISCUSSED

It is said that religious people used to distrust the increase of knowledge and condemned the mental attitude which took delight in its pursuit. Fear lest the foundation of faith should be undermined was the probable explanation of this condition.

Now, all men realize that Truth is the important thing. Therefore, let us get Truth.

With this end in view a group of men and women students has been formed to discuss Science and Religion in all possible aspects—a big job, to be sure! On the one hand (it is said) are to be aligned some of the latest (pertinent) findings in biology, physiology, physics, chemistry, astronomy and what not; while on the other hand conceptions of God, revelation, creation, immortality, salvation, and the soul in man are to be advanced.

Some people are snugly and perhaps snugly ensconced in the belief that no conflict exists between science and religion—since Drummond and a few others have written so tellingly—while others can see scarcely a shadow of compatibility between these two dominating factors in the life of mankind. Hence the question arises—can a person honestly keep idea-tight or pigeon-hole compartments in his mind with regard to science and religion?

All men and women students interested are invited to air difficulties and discuss a way of escape with the round-table group meeting at Strathcona Hall for its second 4-to-4-to-4-to-morrow evening at 7.30. Room B, if there's enough.

Professor I. Allan Mackay has kindly consented to act as leader—with the greatest possible freedom of speech extended to all comers.

"HUMANE EDUCATION" IS RECOMMENDED.

With the purpose of bringing up a better and more thoughtful Canadian citizenship, the Hamilton Humane Society is requesting the Board of Education to include in the public schools' curriculum the study of "humane education." It is pointed out that children who are trained to be kind and just to animals become the same in their treatment of human beings. Should the Hamilton school board adopt the idea, efforts will be made to have the Ontario Department of Education make the study of human ideals obligatory in the schools of the Province.

LEARNING AND EARNING

"The aim of a college education," declares President Lowell, of Harvard, in his annual report, "should be something larger than a preparation for earning a living—it should be, not to give students the technical training and tools of their future occupation, but rather to fit them to be citizens, to develop those qualities that lead to the better life both for themselves and the community." That this humanistic conception of the purposes of higher education is not confined to Harvard alone among the great American universities is borne out by the following quotation from Dr. Henry van Dyke, of Princeton, who stated: "The object of a college education is not to enable a man to make a living but to teach him how to enrich his mental and moral life, to be more of a man, to be a real person and not a mere cog in the machinery of industry or trade." Such definite statements as these, coming as they do from sources of the highest authority, are of great significance. They mean that the demands of commercial success and business efficiency are not to be allowed to destroy the educational stimulus of culture and the liberal arts.

There are, however, extremes to which the adherents of this point of view can be carried that are as enervating and pernicious as the over-commercialized outlook to which they are opposed. A love of learning and a cultural study of the humanities can be carried to that pitch when they are pursued solely for their own sake, and result in the development, not of a man and a citizen mentally and morally enriched, but of a pedant ignorant of practical affairs and unsympathetic to the everyday affairs of common humanity. There is, too, whatever may be said to the contrary, the pressing necessity of earning a living which faces the college man. He, least of all, should neglect to avail himself of learning how to do his share of the work of the world. And, although, as Dr. van Dyke states, the object of college education is not primarily to afford a man the means of earning a living, the cultural development that it is its main purpose to encourage should not be regarded as antagonistic to a training in the life work of the student.

EDITORIAL NOTE

The last week-end has been one that has resulted to the particular success of the University of Toronto, 'Varsity having humbled their Montreal opponents in both Basketball and Hockey. McGill's Senior Basketball Team put up a game fight but were unable to defeat the visiting quintette, although the last few minutes saw a decided rally on the part of the home team. The University of Montreal was not privileged to realize the sanguine expectations of their supporters who predicted a victory for their representatives when they met the Blue and White outfit. Whether or not these losses will be compensated, to some degree, by a McGill victory over the 'Varsity hockey aggregation on next Friday is a matter for the future to decide; but we are confident that the training, ability and determination of the Red and White players will, likewise, be decisive factors.

MACCABAEAN DANCE TO BE HELD SOON

Informal Affair in Venetian Gardens

Final arrangements have at last been made for the Maccabaeon Informal dance. It will take place in the Venetian Gardens on the eleventh of February. The floor of the Venetian Gardens will be in perfect condition for the dance. Music will be supplied by Martucci's orchestra, and excellent refreshments will be served. The usual programme of entertainment which is given at the Venetian Gardens will also be put on as a special feature.

Maccabaeon dances in the past have always been outstanding successes, and the executive has taken great pains that this year the dance should be the best in the history of the Circle. Everything has been done to insure an enjoyable evening. To avoid overcrowding, the number of tickets has been strictly limited. Tickets are now on sale and may be procured from any member of the executive.

Efforts are being made to have a large number of graduates at the dance, so that it may serve as a sort of re-union of old friends and friendships.

For the information of those who have never had the pleasure of attending one before, it may be said that the Maccabaeon dance is one of the major social events of the year and everybody should make an effort to attend.

COSMOS TO DISCUSS THE NEAR EAST QUESTION

On Wednesday evening at 8:30 in the Strathcona Hall, McGill students will be given an opportunity of increasing their knowledge about that most vexing and complicated of diplomatic puzzles, namely, the "Near Eastern Question." The speaker for the evening, Mr. Fotos, has taken onto himself the burden of unravelling it. He is a well known third year Arts student, with an excellent academic standing and is a thorough classical as well as a modern language scholar. In his address he will discuss Greek politics from the earliest times to the present day; British, French and Italian policies in the Near East, and the causes of the Greek defeat in Asia Minor.

All those who remember the success of the last meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club, on the "Fascisti", and the lively discussion which followed, lasting for about an hour and a half, will assuredly not miss another such pleasant evening. All McGill students are cordially invited to attend—no fees or obligations whatsoever.

Montreal, Jan. 28, 1923.

Editor,

McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—Through the medium of the "Daily," I desire, on behalf of the Basketball Club, to convey their thanks to the members of the Banjo and Mandolin Club who rendered numerous selections at Saturday's game. The assistance of this club is greatly appreciated.

To those gentlemen who so ably handled the crowd the club is also greatly indebted.

Hoping that at the next home game the same assistance may be given and that the team will receive the whole-hearted support of every student.

I remain,
Yours truly,
F. W. EADIE,
Manager.

To the Editor,
McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—I am aware that following the first session of the Mock Parliament last November, there was some criticism in college circles to the effect that too much burlesque had been introduced, and that little opportunity was given students to debate on serious subjects. Some students believed that the meeting though a success as an amusing spectacle, had failed to achieve its main purpose: that of giving as many men as possible a chance to express their views on political questions.

I am therefore expressing my personal opinion on the subject, partly in answer to this criticism, but also in explanation of the policy which I shall try to follow at the next meeting of the House. With regard to burlesque, I have always believed that the purpose of the Mock Parliament should be just as much to amuse as to instruct. I have followed these debates for four years, and I have come to the conclusion that politely parliamentary discussions on the time-worn questions of Tariff, Railways, Immigration, Social Reform and so forth, do not hold the interest of the majority of students, unless enlivened by a good deal of comedy. Men and women at this time of the year, think twice about sacrificing an evening to hear speeches on a subject which was perhaps an "old reliable" in inter-faculty debates when they first came to college. Last year, the discussion of movie censorship, which was humorously treated, was voted a success. Many other instances could be given when even broad burlesque, bordering on the farcical, roused the enthusiasm and applause of some of the largest crowds that have ever attended a Mock Parliament at McGill.

As to the criticism that only a few men had a chance to speak, I would like to point out that there were very few "set" speeches, and that the House itself called for a division before the evening was really well advanced, thus preventing several men from coming to the fore. The only remedy is to prolong the session until the last orator has had his say—which he would probably have in a deserted hall.

Yours very truly,
V. BARRE.

CAPTAIN CUTTLE'S COLUMN

Captain Cuttle, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—As you no doubt may have heard I am preparing an authoritative text-book on the history of intercollegiate sport in Judae and Egypt in ancient times. Could you, as a man of erudition, give me any information relative to this topic?

Very truly yours,

Ans.—The game of tennis must have been played at this time, as I seem to remember reading that Joseph served in Pharaoh's courts, though I have not been able to discover the final score. It is stated in the Bible several times that various people "fell on their neck." From this I presume that skiing or skating or some of the other winter sports were also popular.

KISSED HER ON THE MOUNTAIN

Dear Captain Cuttle,—I am a young girl with lustrous black hair, sparkling eyes, red lips, and shapely ankle. Do you consider me pretty? Also, what do you think of a boy who took me skiing and kissed me on the mountain?

MODEST VIOLET.

Ans.—It sounds as if you had already formed a pretty decided opinion upon the question of your prettiness. As to your friend who kissed you on the mountain, I can only say "chacun à son goût," though personally I try to kiss them on the mouth.

THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

"Young women nowadays," remarks an ornithologist in the employ of the government, "take too light a view of marriage. While in the west last summer I was induced to lecture to a summer school. During the course of this lecture I chanced to remark—

"The ostrich sees very little; on the other hand, it digests everything."
"Whereupon a girl on the front bench exclaimed, sotto voce, to her neighbor: 'Gee, what an ideal husband an ostrich must make.'"

McGILL JRS. VICTORIOUS OVER LOYOLA

Juniors Defeated Loyola in Great Game

SCORE 3-1

Abbott and Galley Star for Winners

Showing a world of speed, coupled with brilliant stick handling and combination play, the McGill junior hockey team stepped into the Loyola college squad and handed them a 3-1 reverse. With the exception of the first few minutes the Red and White were predominant throughout, and never at any time were in danger of being headed. The win was the first to be chalked up by the Juniors, and being over the previously unbeaten Loyola team looks as if they had finally hit their stride.

Every man on the team performed to the best of his ability, and the McGill supporters were given plenty of opportunities to give vent to their enthusiasm. The forward line worked like a machine and swept down the ice three abreast time and again, giving the Loyola defence all kinds of trouble. Harry Galley turned in a beautiful game at centre ice, and was the key for numerous beautifully engineered attacks that brought the crowd to its feet. Abbott and Cope started on the wings, and both travelled at the top of their form, Abbott being responsible for two of the McGill goals, and being especially prominent in breaking up the attacks of the opposing forwards. Goldie and Code fared well on the defence, blocking effectively, and both making several spectacular end to end rushes. Munro played well in goal and the only one that did beat him was the result of a scramble in front of the net, that did not give him any chance to save. The coach made free use of his subs, and they turned in equally as good a game as the regulars.

The Loyola play centred mostly round their star forward, Wayland, and it was mainly through his good work that Loyola averted a whitewash.

The game started with a rush and for the first few minutes the Loyola forwards appeared to have the edge on the McGill men. Munro was called upon to make several stops, but he handled everything that came towards him in a cool and steady manner.

The Red and White forwards soon headed down, and carrying the play to the other end of the rink maintained the offensive for the remainder of the game. Galley and Abbott broke through several times, but the Loyola goalie proved their stumbling block. Finally, after about six minutes of play Abbott put McGill one up on a beautiful shot from the side that gave Mill absolutely no chance to save. Hyman went on for Cope, and the pace livened up considerably. Galley got right through, but missed an almost sure chance to score when he shot from too great an angle.

The McGill defence held their opponents out, and forced them to shoot from long range, which proved easy picking for Munro, who turned their shots away in fine style. Code and Goldie rushed repeatedly and gave their forwards lots of support in their attacks. As a result of one of Code's rushes, Abbott secured the rebound from his shot, and battled it in for McGill's second counter. Loyola worked their heads off in an effort to break into the scoring column, but the Red and White back-checked like fiends, completely bottling them up. Some very pretty combination play was staged by the McGill forwards, who went down three abreast, and were successful several times in getting through, but poor shooting robbed them of a chance to pile up the score. Just before half time Galley and Abbott broke away, the former eluded the defence but was crowded off into a corner, from where he passed off to Abbott. Abbott shot and Galley, swooping in on the goal, got the rebound and scored, putting McGill three ahead.

The second period started with the McGill team playing more of a defensive game, being safely in the lead, and content to let their opponents tire themselves out in trying to break through. The Loyola team worked like trojans, and finally after five minutes had elapsed, Wayland scored from a mix-up in front of the McGill nets. The Red and White now discarded their defensive tactics, and assumed the offensive. Play became rather strenuous, and several penalties were handed out. Referee Shearer keeping the game well in hand. Abbott and Galley went through, but Galley in his anxiety to get Abbott's pass in front of the goal, went into the net himself. Goldie made a beautiful rush down the side and almost scored, but Mill made a brilliant save. Hyman came in fast for the rebound, and tested the goalie again. With a couple of minutes to go Loyola threw all their men into the attack, but in so doing left their defence open and only the good work of their goalie kept McGill from adding to their score. The final bell rang with the score 3-1 in favor of the Red and White.

TWO VICTORIES WON IN LADIES HOCKEY

M.S.P.E. Defeat M.A.A.A.—R.V.C. Defeat Mac

On Saturday morning in the hollow the M.S.P.E. hockey team, playing their second game in the Women's City Hockey League, were again victorious defeating the M.A.A.A. girls by the score of 10-0. Throughout practically the whole game the Winged Wheel sextette were forced to play on the defensive and the few individual rushes that were made were effectively checked by the McGill defense.

Although there was considerable good individual play, team work was largely responsible for the scoring by the winners—the Physical Eds. showing a marked improvement in passing and combination since their game with R.V.C. on Monday.

Almost as soon as the whistle was blown the McGill girls secured the puck and H. Roberts opened the scoring for the winners. Before the first period ended this was followed by three more goals by F. Planagan, E. Snyder and H. Roberts. In the second period H. Roberts and E. Snyder each tallied two more, bringing the score to 8-0. The third period was entered into with the same keenness that had featured the previous play and the M.A.A.A. were successful in resisting the bombardment of the Physical Eds. except for two shots by P. Powell, the M.S.P.E. centre.

The line-ups were:

On Saturday afternoon R.V.C. defeated Macdonald 1-0 in the fifth game of the W. H. League played at St. Ann's. The game was in the balance until a few minutes before the bell rang in the last period, when Miss Marshall received a pass from Miss Ray from behind the net, and put the puck past Miss Lowe, giving the latter no chance to save. The game was rough throughout, and the general opinion was that both teams could have played better hockey. There was no combination to speak of, and the shooting was poor. The individual rush was an important feature. Miss Van Wort played a good game for Mac, and Miss Fry, of R.V.C., played a steady game throughout.

The first period began at a very slow rate. No one seemed able to get away with the puck. Finally Miss Fry broke loose, but failed to score. Mac made attempts at combination, and R.V.C. checked well, though they failed in combination play. Play was about evenly divided between the two ends. The first period ended with a score of 0-0.

In the second period things began to liven up. Miss Perry relieved Miss Roy on defence for a short time. Miss Shearer made a number of rushes. The Mac team began to tire towards the end of this period, which ended with a score of 0-0.

The third period was fast and furious—each team working hard to score. About three minutes before the final bell rang Miss Marshall shot the winning goal on a pass from Miss Roy. In this period R.V.C. made use of a little team work and had the better of the play. Final score 1-0 for R.V.C.

Mr. E. C. Kerr, of the W.A.A.A. referred to the entire satisfaction of all.

R.V.C. BASKETBALL TLAMS VICTORIOUS

Successful in Games Against Y.W.C.A.

Both the R.V.C. basketball teams were victorious in the matches played against the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon. The first team winning with a score of 32-22, and the second with that of 30-32. In spite of the changes made in the personnel of the teams, they showed up to good advantage, although there were no outstanding performances. Both teams made a better showing than in their matches of the previous week versus Macdonald, there being more accurate shooting and better combination. Each game was keenly contested, especially that of the second team, and although the score of the first team is rather one-sided, the game was a continual struggle, the Y.W.C.A. team fighting stubbornly throughout.

FIRST TEAM.

Period I.

The ball was tossed up and was immediately carried to the R.V.C. end of the field by some very good passing, where Miss Murray, with a neat shot, won the first point of the game for R.V.C. This was repeated in the next two points. The ball was then carried to the Y.W.C.A. end, where Miss McCaw won the next point, making the score 2-6. After some good passing up and down the field, ending in a stiff struggle at the R.V.C. end, and Miss Spier won the next two points. This was followed by a goal for the "Y." The ball changed hands frequently owing to good interception on both sides, both scores quickly mounting up. However, the R.V.C. team proved superior, and when some excellent passing on the part of the R.V.C. centres brought the ball down to their end, Miss Spier made a spectacular shot, bringing the score to 11-22 just as time was called.

Period II.

During the second period there were a good many fouls. The first point being scored on a free throw by Miss Murray for R.V.C. This was repeated, and after some good passing the ball was taken to the "Y" territory, where two successive points were scored by Miss McCaw. The ball was then carried down to the R.V.C. end, where, in spite of good guarding, Miss Murray succeeded in scoring a shot, bringing the score up to 16-26. R.V.C. won the next point, followed immediately by one for the "Y." Miss Spier scored the next two points for the R.V.C. In spite of very persistent guarding the Y.W.C.A. forwards took possession of the ball, and a well aimed shot brought the score to 22-32 in favour of the R.V.C. as time was called.

SECOND TEAM.

Period I.

The first point was scored for the Y.W.C.A. and was at once followed by Miss E. Russell, who scored the next two points. After some hard fighting up and down the centre the ball was finally carried into the "Y" ground and the score was brought to 4-4. The three successive points were scored by the Y.W.C.A. in spite of the stubborn guarding of Miss Turley and Miss Johnson. Here again the ball changed hands frequently, the scores being practically alternate. The period ended with a score of 20-24, R.V.C. being in the lead.

Period II.

During this period the same struggle was shown, points being scored for each side in rapid succession. Good combination was shown on both sides, which were very evenly matched. The first point was made for the "Y," a free shot by Miss Rice. This was followed by two more points, which brought the score up to 26-24, with the "Y" in the lead. Miss E. Russell then made a point for R.V.C.; tying the score. Each side then won another point, making it equal again. R.V.C. then lead until the end of the game, which she won by a small margin, the score being 32-36.

SECOND TEAM WON FROM HUNTINGDON

Fast Hockey Game Ended McGill 11, Huntingdon 7

McGill Intermediates on Saturday defeated Huntingdon on their home ice by a score of 11 to 7. McGill showed much the better in combination play, which was hard to play at all times due to the small ice surface. During the first period play started fast and both goal tenders were called on to stop numerous "hard uns". Bell scored early, later scored again. Shortly after this McLean scored, and on a pretty rush from his defence position downsize. Period ended McGill 4, Huntingdon 0.

The second period was opened by Huntingdon scoring their first. After a few minutes' play Lynch, who had been doing fine work, beat the goalie after some fine stick handling. Excitement rose to quite a pitch when the home team then scored twice in quick succession. Bell then came back and before the period ended scored twice more. During this period Brewer, in the nets, was doing fine work, stopping many dangerous looking shots, also affording the crowd some little amusement by his ever-pleasing manner. Just before the period ended Thompson scored again. McGill 8, Huntingdon 4.

During the last period play was fast and hard, the first penalties of the game being handed out, both teams having a man put off in spite of the fact McGill was playing defensive at this stage they kept pace and Bell scored three goals to Huntingdon's three. Final score, McGill 11, Huntingdon 7.

Partridge, Chambers and Moore were the outstanding men on the home team.

NEILAN SAYS FUTURE STARS WILL BE COLLEGIANS

Los Angeles.—Screen stars of the future will come from the universities of the country, Marshall Neilan, director and producer, believes. Neilan is now corresponding with university officials seeking co-operation in finding screen talents. "More breeding, good looks, and culture are found among university students than among any other classes," said Neilan, "and it is these qualities that the pictures most need."

TORO TO MELTS SUCCESS IN BASKE BALL

team let loose with a series of plays that crowd yelling for a spurt. Manson got the jump but in an instant the Toronto swept the McGill team off their feet. In quick succession they sent two baskets into the ring over the heads of the defence. Again the Queen City quintet penetrated the defence and after missing their shot they nailed the sphere and shot another long one into the basket.

The McGill team made a big effort to break up the play, but another ball went into the net. Then the Toronto men had a lone player down the floor who got the ball on a long pass. Amaron went down the floor like a shot, hurling himself in the air blocked the ball, sending it into Turpel, who shot it to Mendelsohn and McGill tallied. Then the team hit their pace and instantly Manson scored. Toronto took time out. The score stood at this stage 29 to 12 for Toronto. Little went on to the floor during the two minutes wait, but kept clear of the group of McGill players to avoid a technical foul.

Little filled in to Turpel's position. The play started with a free try for a technical foul by Toronto. Manson sends this into the ring. Then again Toronto started going. They scored twice and then ended scoring for the game. Manson shot and scored, after getting the ball from Little, who was handling the ball in a manner that fooled the opposition completely. Another shot rattled the ring when Crain scored. The visitors missed three shots in a row and on the rebound Crain passed it up the floor to Manson, who started for the basket, and scored. Another penalty and a free try went in. Manson sent the ball to Amaron on the jump, who passed to Mendelsohn to Little who was under the basket, and on a difficult shot the ball rolled neatly into the net. A long clean shot again went through the ring. It was a race with time, the Red and White having everything their own way, but must go way down under their basket to get the ball from Toronto. This broke up the five man defence, but the opposition still fail to score. Turpel went back into the game for Mendelsohn. He at once got the ball and passed to Crain, who at full speed up the floor shot the ball into the ring. Manson scored on an underhanded shot. At the jump Little got ball as the whistle ended the game. Toronto, 32; McGill, 26.

The Red and White team needed but a few minutes more to score but it was the Toronto team who throughout the greater part of the play were able to handle the ball and work a steady type of passing, shooting not often, but with deadly accuracy. They missed no free tries, and did at no time lose a single opportunity to add points to their score. McGill on the other hand, played an in-different game till the last eight minutes, when they scored fourteen points to the opposition's four. The team, however, is not out of the title running yet, and have every chance of a win.

The line-up was as follows:

McGill. Toronto.

Forwards. Turpel. . . . . Burgess Mendelsohn. . . . . McLean Centre.

Manson. . . . . Bell Defence. Crain. . . . . Graham Amaron. . . . . Duffil

Referee—Manley.

Playing an opener for the afternoon the Intermediate A defeated the Intermediate B team in a game at the High School just prior to the Senior contest. The teams met with the idea that they were very evenly matched, but the A team had no difficulty in keeping well ahead of the smaller team throughout the entire game. Philpotts and Scharfe would work together down into the zone and score time after time. Philpotts, in the pivot position, although he has been out only three weeks, was able to turn in a good card. Scharfe also played circles around his defence and scored several nice shots. Hodina worked into the combination well while he was on the floor and made some effective saves on the defence. Snyder and Rafalovitch were the principal causes of the low score on the part of Intermediate B. These men both were able to check up and combination work and were back from the offensive quickly when the ball was lost.

Starke and Davis were the mainstays of the B team but they were too well cared for by the defence to do much effective shooting. Bill James was not on the floor for the A team but his brother Art played part of the game and although he has not been out much up to date he was also a powerful factor in the working of some of the passing that the team was able to get away with. From the start of the game there was little doubt as to the outcome. Scharfe got in a good percentage of his free tries and the team outplayed the B outfit in every department of the game.

Starke got the initial jump but an instant later a foul gave two points to the A team. The game was slow and technical fouls also delayed the play. Philpotts however was able to break loose and dribbling down the floor while Scharfe worked toward the side the defence going out to cover the diminutive forward left the basket open so that Philpotts had little trouble in sending the sphere into the net. An instant later Bronson, who is on the forward line for the A team, was given the ball on the jump and returned to Philpotts, who scored again. Bronson was injured in the play and went off the floor, Hodina replacing him. Cummings scored for the B team on an overhead heave from the side lines. Hodina terminated a series of passes with a basket. A minute later the ball goes from Hodina to Philpotts to Scharfe and into the basket. The A

THE GOVERNMENT

Renewed activity in Government circles has been noticeable during the past few days, and the supporters of the constitutional party will strain every nerve to remain in power when Parliament again meets in the Union on Thursday night. The Premier and members of his Cabinet conferred on Friday and Saturday concerning measures to be brought in. It is understood that a number of bills providing for much important legislation are being drafted, and will be introduced in the course of a day or two.

THE OPPOSITION

Rumors of a radical change in the constitution of the Progressive party has led one of the reporters of the Daily to investigate, and many startling and prognostic events have been brought to the surface.

Through secret sources only open to the Daily, it was learned to-day that communications of a liberal nature have been going on between the Progressive, Facisti and Klu Klux Klan Parties. Amalgamation is rumored, and a platform of the most extreme and radical type is sure to be brought forward. De-conventionalization of the R.V.C. and other bills pertaining to the liberty of the student at large are to be the outstanding.

Canvassers for the Progressive parties are out in full force, and weather permitting, will hold large and demonstrative campaigns amongst the student body.

TORONTO MEETS SUCCESS IN BASKETBALL

defence came down the floor on numerous occasions. Davis hit the ring to score. Again from Philpotts to Scharfe and into the basket. Philpotts is taken out of the play and Bronson goes into centre. Scharfe scores again from under the basket. Snyder gets two baskets on lone rushes. A minute later after shooting in two free tries Scharfe, working alone, scores after the defence again tries to cover the other forward and centre. Then Bronson scored and a minute before the whistle Hodina added a tally to the A team. Half time with the A team 22 and the B team 6.

Period opens fast and Davis scores on two free tries. Scharfe also gets in a pair of free shots. Starke scores again from under the basket on neat shot. The B team bombarded the brackets but failed to hit the basket. Art James slips down the floor and, getting a long pass, sends it into the ring. Quackenbush also sent a free try into the net.

PITY THE POOR PUBLIC

Exactly 102 prescriptions were filled by the prescription department of the Pharmacy school of Purdue University the last two days. This is a steady increase over the preceding four days, when an average of 25 prescriptions were compounded daily. Most of these prescriptions were for cold, coughs and diphtheria.

WHERE IS THE HOCK-SHOP?

When we tell you, says the Ohio State Lantern, that musical instruments are swamping the pawn shops, you'll probably say, "That's a great note!" with one a-chord. But we're not stringing you—it's a fact.

And here's the reason that downtown "hock" shops are receiving so many calls from students laden, in most cases, with musical instruments:

The Junior Prom is scheduled for Friday. After spending $5 for a ticket the student must have a tuxedo. Since it is near the end of the month the check from home looks like the war tax on a lemon phosphate.

IS IT THE SAME AT MCGILL?

With an average of 4.9 the co-eds at the University of Idaho have again proven themselves scholastically superior to the men of the college, who have an average of 4.34. The calculations are based on a perfect average of 6.000.

LITERARY CORRUPTION

Tome, where art thou? Leather-bound volume, whither hast thou gone? And, as for thee, Boccaccio, why didst write "Decameron"? For verily it hath led mickle students from the straight and narrow.

The seminars in Lincoln hall, Illinois University, have lost 200 books to absent-minded students and those wishing to complete their own libraries.

In the past few years, ten copies of "Decameron" have disappeared from book-shelves in the seminars. The lines on some of them have reached the point where they exceeded the original cost of the book. Others have been gone for years and then have suddenly appeared on the study tables again.

Some people are always waiting for their luck to turn, but when it does turn they are disappointed in finding it the same on both sides.

CAUSE OF BLUE COLOR IN WATER DISCOVERED

The long controversy as to the cause of the blue colour of water has been settled, thanks to recent work done at the University of Toronto, said Professor F. B. Kenrick, speaking before the Chemistry Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

There are three separate causes, Professor Kenrick explained, any one of which alone may, under suitable conditions, cause this blue colour: absorption, light scattering, and reflection of the blue sky. As examples of these causes, he went on to say that the blue in a swimming tank is due to the first cause, that of a lake or sea seen from the land is caused chiefly by the sky, and the deep blue seen on looking vertically into the sea in the tropics is due to light scattering.—The Tech.

DESBIEN ' MEN SUCCUMB TO TORONTO SIX

Brousseau came on the ice; whether it was to play or not seemed indefinite, and considerable delay was caused, which annoyed the crowd. Richardson returned, and remained till the end of the period. Desbiens tried several long shots but Thompson merely turned them aside. Seventeen minutes had elapsed when Carson got his second goal, and Varsity' fourth; at this point Gordon and Quenneville went in to replace Westman and Carson respectively. Play slowed up considerably and the remainder of the period was uneventful.

SECOND PERIOD

Between the periods the rooters' band attempted to keep the crestfallen students in good spirits and to make them forget that their team was four goals behind. When the teams took to the ice again, Brousseau was seen in the Montreal nets. Directly after the face-off, U. of M. made a determined rush and Lord scored their first goal on a rebound. Twenty seconds later A. Lamarre duplicated this feat with a shot which brought the crowd to their feet and kept them at a fever pitch of excitement during the remainder of the period. Varsity were not asleep and very shortly Carson made it five when he capped a beautiful piece of combination and stick-handling with a goal. Following this rapid scoring play lagged slightly, until three minutes later Captain Desbiens fooled Thompson and added another goal to his team's tally. The Frenchmen made continued attempts to score by shooting from outside the defence, but their efforts were for a time unavailing and each team put on two fresh men. As the period began to wane an offside passed unnoticed by the referee and Montreal drew up within one goal of Varsity's score when Lord made it 5-4. But Harris followed almost at once with a goal for Varsity. Toronto bulged the nets again, but on a forward pass, and the goal was disallowed. The gong rang two minutes too soon, and following this interruption the remainder of the period appeared to be a mere ceremony.

THIRD PERIOD

The final stage of the game produced the best hockey of the evening, when Toronto, with a comfortable lead of two goals, continued to work hard, and for a time obtained a margin of three over their opponents. The first few seconds saw the puck see saw back and forth on the ice, until Varsity took the situation in hand and Carson scored a goal, after a wonderful piece of work. U. of M. also made several good combination plays, but their chief faults were to pass when no recipient was in sight, and to hold the puck when the three forwards were advancing in a line. Several mix-ups took place in front of the Varsity goal, and in one of these Desbiens scored off Harris' skate, the puck finding its way into an unprotected corner of the net. Then for early ten minutes the Varsity forwards outskated U. of M., and at times seemed almost to play with them, while Montreal vainly attempted to increase their score by individual or two-man rushes. With three minutes to go Toronto sent on two subs, and play during the last few minutes became quite slow; U. of M. seemed to have lost their pep, and when the gong rang they were undoubtedly a beaten team.

The game was marred by very little rough play, and no penalties were imposed on any of the contestants.
